

Jersey: Open to you

Would you like to conduct your business in a thriving international centre at the heart of global commerce, but not suffer the burdens and costs of city life?

And what if this same place was run by a government that stringently maintains and robustly regulates a flourishing and diverse business environment, free of high taxes and unnecessary bureaucracy?

A place where you can live in breathtaking countryside, yet be only minutes from your office. Where you can put in a full day's work, but still be home in good time to spend an evening on the beach with your family.

It might sound too good to be true, but this place really does exist!

The location is the beautiful Channel Island of Jersey, a proudly independent state sitting on the door-step of Europe, but without being ruled by it. A place where the government is accessible, flexible and nurtures a culture of enterprise. A place inhabited by thousands of leading business professionals, including accountants, lawyers, trust and investment specialists and bankers, working across a myriad of global sectors.

In Jersey there is no inheritance tax, no capital gains tax and personal and business taxes are levied in a low and logical manner, so it makes sound financial sense to be based here.

Situated less than fourteen miles from France and under an hour from London, with frequent flights to all major European business centres, including Paris, Dublin and Geneva, Jersey is at the hub of a world-wide transport network.

And with excellent telecommunications coverage and broadband connectivity, it has a world-class IT infrastructure that is supporting a booming e-commerce industry, in both the financial and retail sectors. In Jersey you are only a click away from the rest of the world.

On-island, your commute is twenty minutes. It's a safe place, with very little crime and where traditional values of respect for people and their property are still upheld.

Jersey is healthy place where you are surrounded by golden sandy beaches, lush woodland and dramatic heath-covered cliff tops.

On this cosmopolitan Island, there is unending access to an extensive range of sporting, leisure and cultural activities:- from sailing and surfing to tennis and golf; from Michelin-star restaurants to luxury spas; from comedy and drama to opera and ballet, there's something for everyone in Jersey.

With a first-class education system that consistently outperforms most of the UK and the opportunity to grow up in a safe, outdoor environment, there is every reason to raise your family in Jersey. The health service is comprehensive, with excellent primary care facilities and a clean, modern hospital offering high standards of care.

Jersey is one of the few places on earth where the work-life balance really is achievable - here you can work the city life, but not have to live your life in the city.

We look forward to welcoming you to our beautiful Island.

"You can't put a price on being able to walk away from the office and be home within minutes, playing with the kids or taking a walk on the beach."
